

Name: _____ Block: _____

Date: _____

Unit 3: The Language of Poetry

Write about a Season: Free Verse

Both “Spring is like a perhaps hand” and “Today” focus on spring. What season brings the strongest images to your mind?

Task: Write a free verse about the season that brings the strongest images to your mind. While not required, you may wish to begin by free writing all the images that come to mind about the season of your choice. Then, think of the sounds the season brings to mind and list words containing these sounds. For your poem, you must do as Cummings and Collins have done:

1. Vary the lengths of your lines to emphasize what is important.
2. Repeat words and phrases for emphasis.
3. Use imagery that is created by exercising purposeful word choice.

Ms. Muhlbaier

Language Arts

Name: _____ Block: _____

Date: _____

Unit 3: The Language of Poetry

Write about a Season: Free Verse

Both “Spring is like a perhaps hand” and “Today” focus on spring. What season brings the strongest images to your mind?

Task: Write a free verse about the season that brings the strongest images to your mind. While not required, you may wish to begin by free writing all the images that come to mind about the season of your choice. Then, think of the sounds the season brings to mind and list words containing these sounds. For your poem, you must do as Cummings and Collins have done:

1. Vary the lengths of your lines to emphasize what is important.
2. Repeat words and phrases for emphasis.
3. Use imagery that is created by exercising purposeful word choice.

Ms. Muhlbaier

Language Arts